

A New Dawn

---

Background

It was December 2011, and I was worshipping at Calne Community Church when I had the following picture. I'm not sure whether it was for CCC or the wider church so I'm including it here.

Picture

I was looking out over a rural scene as the sun was just beginning to rise over the hills. It was a beautiful morning with a clear sky and dew covered the luscious ground. There was a real sense of peace and I felt drawn to move into the new day.

My impression was that God was saying that he was bringing about a new start. The past is behind us, and we will move into a new future which will bring peace and refreshment (the dew).
